Value of and Income from Rapid Transit Real Estate Takes Court's Attention

The valuation of the real estate owned by the Honolulu Rapid Transit & Land Company, and the improvements which have been made on the property since its acquirement, were the only features of note brought out during today's trial of the territory's injunction suit against the company.

Canton G. Ballentyne, manager of the Rapid Transit, was called to the witness stand for cross-examination by the company's attorneys. The greater part of the morning was given over to ascertaining from where the company secured the land on which to erect its present power plant, as well as other lands which it now owns. Manager Ballentyne, referring to extensions of the company line, testified that the Manoa and Watalae extensions were secured largely through contributions of money and lands made by residents of those sections, and by persons interested in the upbuilding of those districts. In this connection, there was brought out the valuation of the lands and the improvements which have been made on
